INFO8000 Code of Honor
May 17, 2021

Conestoga College students are expected to respect the following rules:
- I will not share my access to eConestoga with another person.
- I will not publish course materials, made available through eConestoga, in any way on other sites.
- I will not publish on eConestoga any material unrelated to the objectives of my course.
- I will not make available solutions to assignments and exams in any way.
- I will not share my computer resources such as laptop, USB, shared drive with another person.
- I will work on group assignments within my team, without the help of another person outside my team.
- I will not make false claims and false accusations to anyone in my class and to any students that may cause them harm in any way.
- I will not actively seek solutions for my course assignments from current or past students or from the internet. If there is a solution that matches our course assignment, I will refuse/decline to use it as a reference and I will inform my team and inform my instructor right away.

Additional rules for group assignments:
- I will only work with the help of another team member within my own group, and only when collaborative work is specifically requested.
- I will give feedback in a respectful, friendly and factual manner.
- I will not share my team's solution with other students.
- I will not make the work of my team members available to others in any way.

The following will not be tolerated:
- Cheating
  - Cheating is the use of aids or supports in order to secure an unfair advantage during testing or other evaluation scenarios. I will adhere to all instructions required for taking the online exams including Respondus Lockdown Browser and Respondus Monitor, as required.
    - Review the details: https://lms.conestogac.on.ca/facultysupport/respondus-monitor/
- Plagiarism
  - Copying complete or parts of existing work and presenting it as your own work will be considered plagiarism and can lead to an academic integrity offense. If you have used solutions/ techniques/ videos/ code/ models/ aids found outside the textbook or outside the course materials provided by the instructor, you must provide a reference and detailed explanation. When in doubt, contact your instructor immediately.
    - Review the details: http://lib.conestogac.on.ca/academic-integrity

- Inappropriate content

  - If the student submits work, which contains inappropriate content, this can lead to the student receiving a zero mark. Deliberate provocation, mockery, racism, mature content/language, spam and similar content will be considered inappropriate and will be dealt with accordingly.

Multiple violations of the code of honor can lead to the faculty taking further action, including exclusion from the group assignments and other penalties for academic incidents on academic integrity.

I have read and understood the INFO8000 code of honor.
